Broke after a short time Broke very quickly:/ Broke after a few months. this broke and no longer worked less then a month after it got here. not happy Temp gauge broke within six months. I still used it in the tub because my son liked the turtle, but then the bottom fell of and the whole thing fell apart and wont screw back together. It is super cute, but doesn't work well. Takes a while to get...

I don't HATE this product but I'm frustrated enough with it that I'm probably going to end up throwing it away soon. When it works, which it did for the first couple months, it's great. The temperature gauge seems accurate enough to be a good guideline and it really couldn't be easier to use (just throw it in the water and it turns on - no buttons or switches or anything other than a temperatur...

We purchased this product to control temperature in bathtub, as manufacturer advertised. It worked fine just once for about 5 minutes. Product designed to inform a user that temperature is either too hot or too cold by producing beeping sound. Five minutes later product made a beeping sound, and stopped working. At first we thought there was low battery. We decided to change it. Opened battery ...

The first night I loved this thermometer. I registered for it and opened it early. I didn't read the instructions (not sure if there were any) and didn't realize that it turns on when you put it in the water. I thought that was insanely cool and clever. It's incredibly sturdy and makes for a great bath toy. I have used it myself during pregnancy to make sure that my baths aren't too hot.What ha...

I used this item one night and removed it from the water. I went to use it the following night and it did not work. I tried it the about two more times on different occasions. It didn't work. Very disappointed I can't believe this got so many 5 stars. We got this to measure the temperature in our newborns bath. The first few uses went fine but then the last digit failed to show up clearly. Very...

Meh. Works slowly and shows wrong temperature. I only had it for about 2 months or less, didn't quite use it for the first month since baby still had the umbilical cord, so no baths for the 1st month. And when I finally started using it, it just died on me. At first I thought it was the battery, which was odd too, since the item was brand new, but I had to buy new batteries and replace it, but ...

It was great for 1.5 month and then it lost its waterproof quality, the water spread through the indicative panel one day and that was the end of it.

Sample:

Used for my 3 months old son, lasted about a month before it would "beep" constantly after we have already taken it out of the water. So I had to shake excessive water off of it vigorously so that it wouldn't "beep" loudly after use. Then it started to act up; turning on and off randomly, beeping randomly at different temperature. Irony: it wouldn't beep when I fill the tub with hot water at th...

This was very useful when I first got it and it worked. As a nervous new mother I wanted to make sure the bath temperature was exactly right. Then, after a few weeks of use, the thermometer starting getting wildly inaccurate readings. The alarm would go off and the display would read something like 105 degrees when the water was tepid. I'm really glad that the temperature reading was so ina...

Sample:

It worked for a couple days, but then it started to give inaccurate temp readings... it would say the water temp was much lower than it actually was (verified w/ a different thermometer).. I'm not sure if it's because somehow some water got into the mechanism or what, but in the read out area, it sometimes looks like water got in there. This was very useful when I first got it and it worked. A...

Kinda useless This product began to malfunction after 3 months. It won't work in the water, and it will randomly start beeping by itself when it's out of the water. It is totally useless now. I expected it to last longer.

The description's claim that it measures the water temperature every two seconds turns out to be a big lie! I bought it after reading all the other stellar reviews, so I felt obliged to share my bad experience. Five minutes after I turned off the water, it beeps that the water is too hot (I'm no scientist, but I'm pretty sure the water sitting in a baby tub should be doing nothing but cooling d...

0.8% of the negative reviews used "unreliable" to describe their sentiment.

Sample:

This thermometer worked for some time (a few uses, couple of months maybe), but then started showing unreliable temperature readings (lower than actual). So, I suppose it's a clever idea but at least for us, not a particularly useful item anymore.

0.8% of the negative reviews used "unfortunate" to describe their sentiment.

Sample:

This product worked well for about a month. It registered H2O temperature quickly and accurately for a few weeks and then one day it just didn't work. Unfortunate since it was a handy safety tool and the baby liked seeing it floating in his bathtub.

We bought the Aquatopia Deluxe for our newborn son 2 months ago; it was very easy to use while it lasted, but it lasted only about a week. We had decided to buy it after reading these stellar reviews, and even though it cost a little more, we thought we were paying for better quality. I've had this since pre baby and he's been using it for more than a year. It's okay. I get annoyed because it flashes between C and F and so you have to wait to read the one you know (only 2 seconds but..) but by far the biggest issue that that there is no off switch. I believe it's gotten worst with time, but after you take it out of the water, it cools off enough to need to warn you its be...

The thermometer shows 103F and beeps "too hot" alarm while measuring water with the actual temperature of 95F. I've compared the measurements of this thermometer with measurements of two different thermometers. 95F water is a bit too cold for infants. So, even if I account for the measurement error, I am unable to use this thermometer because its beeping is too annoying.

We received this as a gift for our newborn. It was cute and worked well for several weeks, until one day like many reviewers mentioned it would not switch off when we took it out of the water, and because it was no longer at temperature the beeping went on and on and on until the battery was drained. When we opened it up to change the battery, not only had water got into the inside, the batte...

The concept is good. The device alarm sound is so low, that if you have water stream (like shower or faucet) running, you wont be able to hear it. So in effect, it is not adding any value. I understand, the challenge that they had to put the speaker inside a water proof casing, blocking the sound. What would have worked better is, a bluetooth alarm to my smart phone. Very disappointed. After combing through many reviews, many of which were mixed, we decided to try this thermometer. Dear husband was adamant to try one with an alarm after seeing the hospitals. It was supposed to alarm if too hot or too cold. It did neither of these things. I decided the alarms were not a necessity for me. However, when I went to get my daughter, somehow the water temp rose fr...

Best water thermometer for the bathtub. Have purchased several for shower gifts. Both me and my husband love our water way to hot. We were having issues telling what the "correct" temperature would be. The last thing we want is a way to hot or too cold bath. This took all the guess work out of it for us. The little alarm goes off if we aren't within the safe zone. It isn't overly loud, ...

Fast shipping, quality product. It is cheap and good quality product! I've been searching this one at Walmart, Target and it was always out of stock, was happy to find it here. Very useful for us since we bath our child in the tub with us. It does make this REALLY annoying beeping sound if the water is too hot and it doesn't stop until the unit is cooled down, which takes some time even if you remove it from the water. Worked very well for about the first six months, was great to use. It's now starting to act a bit dodgy with regard to starting up or shutting down. AWESOME Awesome and so easy to use I love this thing! It's cute! It's an awesome thermometer and can double as a bath toy. It's activated by water so you don't have to worry about the battery(which is easily replaceable) and it's accurate. I have heard horror stories about people not knowing that babies can't withstand really hot water, and that is tragic when it's such a simple solution. I rec...

This worked perfectly, although it takes a few minutes until the temperature reading is accurate. We used this to make sure our birth pool was at a proper temperature and for the first few months to bathe our daughter. This was helpful to have as new parents. Now that I'm more experienced judging bath temperature, it's not as necessary. The only downside to it is that it can continue to beep even when it's out of the water. Overall, good value. I originally ordered this for the bath tub, but decided to give it a try in the hot tub. This works great. It beeps if the water is too cold - below 89.6 I believe - or too hot - above 100. It takes forever for me to regulate the water temperature in my house so I want to know that the bath time temp is just right. As for the beeping when it's out of the water, when I take it out of the infant tub that sits in the bathtub, I flip it over and put in the corner of the shower and it ...

We bought this a couple of months ago for our newborn and it worked alright for a couple of weeks. Since then however, it comes on only intermittently.
